Identity Theft

Don't Let It Happen to You

You read about it. You hear about it. But you never think it will happen to you. Identity theft is when someone steals your personal information to gain access to your money and open charge accounts in your name. In a very short time a large debt can be created in you name. Identity theft can happen to anyone.

There are a number of things you can do to protect yourself:

- Don't give out any account numbers, credit card numbers or social security number unless you know exactly whom you are dealing with.
- Report lost or stolen checks, credit cards and debit cards immediately.
- Don't carry your social security card with you.
- Closely guard your ATM Personal Identification Number and Receipts.
- Shred any financial solicitation and bank statements before disposing of them.
- Don't put outgoing mail that contains personal information in your mailbox. Drop it in a secure postal mailbox.
- Review all account statements for unauthorized charges.
- Never provide your personal information in response to an unsolicited telephone call, fax, letter, e-mail, or internet advertisement.

Did you know that you can get one (1) free annual credit report? You may want to call or check the websites of any of the three major credit reporting agencies. Please note that your score may vary from one reporting agency to another. It is good practice to get a copy of your credit report annually.
